

FAQ — Questions and Answers

What is sporthub.football?

This is a website with free football predictions created using artificial intelligence. The predictions are provided for informational and entertainment purposes.

Can the predictions be used for betting?

The predictions are for informational purposes only. We do not guarantee their accuracy, and any betting actions are taken at your own risk.

How often are predictions updated?

Predictions are updated daily, depending on the match schedule and available data.

How can I contact the site administration?

You can contact us at info.sporthub.football@gmail.com.

Can I copy materials from the site?

All materials are protected by copyright. Copying is allowed only with proper attribution and a link to the site.

How do you use technical data from users?

We may collect IP address, browser type, visited pages, and session time for analytics and to improve the website.

Do you use cookies?

Yes, we use cookies to ensure proper website functionality and to analyze traffic. You can disable cookies in your browser settings, but this may limit some functionality.

Why do predictions sometimes not match the actual results?

Predictions are probabilistic assessments, and exact results cannot be guaranteed.

Can the predictions be used for commercial purposes?

No, using materials from the site for commercial purposes is prohibited without written permission from the administration.

What sources of data do you use for predictions?

We use official statistical data and open sports databases, as well as artificial intelligence algorithms.

Is the website mobile-friendly?

Yes, the website is fully adapted for mobile devices and tablets.

How often are the site rules and terms updated?

The Terms of Use and Privacy Policy may be updated at any time, and changes take effect immediately after publication on the website.